Dear Jo Anna:

Thank you very much for contacting us.

Unfortunately, we have no record of you in our database. You would've had to send your suggestion via the form on our website and there is no mention of you or your idea there.

If you would please send a copy of any signed agreements and/or copies of any email correspondence with us, it would help greatly. Please send copies of any and all contact with our company that may have occurred in the past.

Thank you for writing.

Sincerely,

Dear Ms. Canzoneri-McCormick:

We have received your letter, December 17, 2006, and I have checked to determine whether or not your original information was received by us. We have no record of your product suggestion. It is possible that you might be involved in reviewing a submittal of this nature. If so, marketing or consumer relations or our legal department.

When you were involved in the development of the Ben & Jerry's® milkshakes, I have found that we have been researching formulations and a marketing strategy for the product that you mentioned in the first of your original paperwork—dated July 22, 2005 as noted in the paperwork we received on 02/21/07. We have been well on the way to completing our plans for the milk shake.

We certainly appreciate your interest, and want to encourage your support of our products by making a few comments. We'll do our best to make sure your experiences with Ben & Jerry's® will be as favorable as you desire.

Dear Ms. Canzoneri:

Your letter concerning a product description form has been referred to me.

Unfortunately, Unilever does not accept confidential unsolicited ideas for products from consumers. Unilever's vehicle for accepting unsolicited ideas is through its website "www.Ideas4Unilever.com." You can probably appreciate that since Unilever conducts a substantial amount of R&D in-house it does not want to receive confidential ideas, which might duplicate its own ideas, from consumers.

We are returning your letter and enclosures. Please do not send Unilever any information which you wish to have kept confidential. Moreover, if you choose to submit an idea to Unilever, you would need to do so through the Ideas4Unilever.com website. As with any legal issue, it may be advisable to consult an attorney before proceeding.

We are retaining one copy of your correspondence in our legal files in case any questions arise.

I am sorry if our response is disappointing, but I do thank you for your interest in Unilever.

RE: Unsolicited Idea Submission

Dear Ms. McCormick-Canzoneri

This is in response to your recent letter to Sony. Please be advised that it is Sony policy not to accept, for review or consideration, any unsolicited idea submission(s) which are not already protected by an issued Patent. In view of the fact that your idea was not accompanied by an issued patent, we must return to you all original materials submitted to us.

Should you obtain patent protection on your idea and have an issued Patent, you are welcome to submit that patent to us for full consideration and review.

We hope that the foregoing meets with your understanding and we sincerely appreciate your consideration of Sony relative to your product and/or idea.

Sincerely,

Carrie Merzbacher
Patent Administrator
Sony Corporation of America

Dear Ms. Canzoneri-McCormick:

Thank you for contacting American Airlines Customer Relations and for your interest in American Airlines.

The first step in our process is for you to register in our database. To do that, please visit our web site at www.aa.com/supplierdiversity. Once you've completed that process you will receive an email acknowledgment with the name and contact information for the person within American Airlines that handles your specific product or service. You can then contact that person about bidding opportunities and the timing of those opportunities.

We welcome all customer feedback. The next time you feel something deserves our attention, please email us via AA.com at www.aa.com/customerrelations. We'll receive your comments without delay and be back to you as soon as possible.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Brannon

Re: Your Letter to Continental International

Dear Ms. Canzoneri:

As Managing Attorney of Litigation & Intellectual Property at Continental Airlines, your letter to "Continental International" dated August 17, 2008, a copy of which is attached, has been forwarded to me. Although your letter was addressed to Continental International, we presume that you intended this letter to refer to Continental Airlines. If not, please let me know and we will close our file on this matter. If, however, your intent was to address Continental Airlines, please direct any future communications on this matter directly to me.

Although we are not able to understand many of the allegations made in your letter, particularly many of the numbered statements, it appears to allege infringement of certain intellectual property and contract rights. It is Continental's long-standing policy not to knowingly infringe the rights of others and to investigate specific allegations of infringement. The information provided in your letter, however, is not sufficient for us to reasonably investigate this matter. Specifically, we are unable to determine from your letter what intellectual property or other rights you allege are infringed. For example, your letter does not identify any contract between yourself and Continental, United States Patent number, registered trademark number, or any other specific description of the intellectual property or other rights that are allegedly being infringed by Continental.

In addition, you have not identified any actions of Continental Airlines that allegedly infringe your intellectual property or other rights. Your letter contains the handwritten words "Air Compac" near the "Re:" line, but we are unsure what that is intended to mean.

In order for Continental to understand and reasonably consider the demands made in your letter, we request that you provide specific information identifying 1) the intellectual property and/or other rights that you claim to own, and 2) the actions of Continental Airlines that allegedly infringe those rights. Without more, we simply do not have enough information to understand or consider the allegations made in your letter. We look forward to receiving your response.

Very truly yours,

Scott J. Garber

Dear Ms. Canzoneri-McCormick:

We appreciate your taking the time to contact us and share your idea for laptop-type computers in the back of each airplane seat for our Customers' use. I appreciate the opportunity to respond.

Certainly, your idea is a good one; however, while the concept alone seems simple enough, there are many other factors that come in to play when we make changes to even the simplest part of the aircraft design. Unfortunately, in much the same way that it costs more to add power windows to your car after it is built, it costs us to retrofit our aircraft to make such changes. There is also the additional weight added to aircraft to take into consideration. Add to that the cost to purchase and install this product, as well as the time spent gaining FAA approval for the changes to our fleet, and we just do not feel a change of this nature would be beneficial to us.

Nonetheless, we wish you the best of luck with your venture, and we thank you again for sharing it with us. We hope that we will have the opportunity to welcome you onboard should your future travel needs take you to cities we serve.

Sincerely,

Summer Cook

For more than 50 years, Peg Perego has been taking children on outings: first in their famous baby carriages and Peg Perego strollers, and later in high chairs, car seats, pedal and battery-powered Peg Perego ride on toys and accessories. Operating on an international level, with facilities in the United States, Canada and Europe, Peg Perego carries on its reputation of fashionable, quality products and service for juvenile products and children's ride on toys.

Peg Perego Philosophy:

Our continued growth and success is the result of a sustained commitment to designing and creating the most well-constructed and unique juvenile products and riding vehicles available today. Our philosophy remains as it was when Peg Perego started as a small one-man Italian business in the 1940s: a dedication to original and innovative products designed for discriminating consumers who demands fashion, individuality, quality and safety in the products they purchase for their babies and young.
